NEW BOOK RELEASE: Nursing Wit and Wisdom

Denver, CO April 25, 2009 – Audrey Friedman RN, CLNC, owner of Friedman Medical Legal Consulting, LLC has recently released a new book entitled, “Nursing Wit and Wisdom”.

“Nurses always have something to say about everything. We teach, we listen, we wake up a lot of doctors and we clean up things only a mother would think of touching. Hopefully in the process we have touched a lot of hearts.”

This book shares nursing wisdom from over 23 years from the author and colleagues, in humorous, truthful and thought provoking ideas, questions and stories. The author shares insights such as, “If you sleep longer than an hour in the ICU, you’re not getting your money’s worth.”, “A warmed blanket can put a patient to sleep faster than a sleeping pill.” and “Never, never make the nurse angry (and be on call that night).” The reader is also offered the opportunity to consider and discuss questions around their chosen profession, such as, “Why are you working in the unit you are?” and “What kind of nursing leader are you?”

John Riddell RN, CLNC, Excellence Medical Legal Research & Consulting, LLC shares his review, “You have managed to extract the soul of nursing and place it, amid various whimsical diversions, in a grand light. This essence can be seen by nursing students, aspiring nursing students, young nurses, the old nurse guard and maybe a couple of doctors. This is a book for all those who care about the human condition, especially nurses, and especially for those who know enough to appreciate the nurse.”

This book is the perfect companion for nurses, nursing and medical students and all those who share and celebrate in a nurses’ work and life. Audrey Friedman RN, CLNC has been a nurse for over 23 years in oncology and critical care. She currently works in critical care and owns Friedman Medical Legal Consulting, LLC, working with attorneys, insurance and healthcare facilities regarding medical review and research, as well as nurse mentoring and community speaking.
